> To-day's Turkish developments: Young Turks resume their march and are at the gates of Constantinople.

Renewed outbreaks take place in Asia-Minor, the entire province of Aleppo and Damascus being the new centers of the massacres.

Varying reports continue to be received regarding the Sultan, some to the effect that he has abdicated and taken refuge on the Russian cruiser Greig, but the more probable ones to the effect that he either has or will come to an agreement with the Young Turks where-by he will retain the Sultanship, but with his power practically can-

Martial law likely to be declared this afternoon in Constantinople.

British cruiser Diana lands strong force at Alexandretta to protect foreigners from fanatical Mohammedans who are massa-cring Christians. Vice-Admiral Curzon Howe expected to arrive at Asia-Minor ports shortly and send troops into the interior.

Berlin, April 21.-The Young Turks advance against Constantinople was resumed to-day. Messages from the Turkish capitol say that the advancing columns are now plainly visible from the outskirts of the capitol and that an army will probably enter the city within a few hours. Guards have been landed in Constantinople from the foreign ships in the harbor and are prepared to protect foreigners and their property. Young Turks have sent word cared for five cases during the year and the total disbursement was $428.01 leaving a balance of $489.67.

All of the officers were re-elected and the retiring trustees were elected for a term of three years. The result of this afternoon's meeting of the cabinet.

Constantinople, April 21.—The mas-sacre of Christians by fanatical groups has been renewed with fury through-out a large part of Asia-Minor. Antioch Birendja in the province of Aleppo and Damascus in Syria are new cen-ters of the outrages. The entire prov-ince of Aleppo is in a panic. The few troops on hand are absolutely powerless to protect the people.

Five villages have been destroyed and burned and the foreign population is fleeing to the consulates for protection. The British cruiser Diana has landed a strong force at Alexandretta. 5,555.06 Admiral Curzon Howe, the British commander of the fleet now enroute to the scene from Malta, is momentarily expected.

Vice-Admiral Curzon Howe in com-mand of the British warships will probably dispatch a force inland to protect the Europeans. The Shelk-Ul-Islam is telegraphing appeals to the priesthood in Asia-Minor to do everything possible to put down the disor-ders. Similar telegrams have been ders. sent before but have been ignored and the Sheik-Ul-Islam is desperate.

The province of Aleppo, where the massacres are the most violent and widespread, has a population of considerably more than a million. The massacres there are said to be worse than

FLARE-UP WHEN LAWYERSCLASH AT BAR HEARING

Insinuation by Attorney Fallon During Session of the Grievance Committee.

Fallon, After Testimony of His Object "Not to Do Less Patrick McGrath, Tells Commitee He Was Practically a Victim of Blackmail-Why He Made Second Payment to McGrath.

While Attorney Frederick B. Fallon was testifying before the Grievance committee of the Fairfield county bar this morning in answer to a charge preferred by Patrick McGrath of 1517 Forces Into Affected Main street, with no inconsiderable display of spirit by indirection, at least, he accused Attorney Charles S. Canfield one of the two members of the committee the other being Gen. Russell Frost of Norwalk, of being only too willing to drag him before the committee whether or not there was ground for such action.

The accused attorney had just told the committee that he had given to McGrath money on a second payment which was nothing less than blackmail and that he did it because he knew from the threats of McGrath that had he not done so the latter would have e to Attorney Canfield and had him naled before the committee.

"I would have given McGrath $90, instead of $9 if he demanded it" said Mr. Fallon for I knew because of a happening between Mr. Canfield and myself the latter would have dragged me before this committee." ne before this committee

He said that Mr. Canfield knew to what he referred and continuing said: "I complained to Canfield some time ago about a lawyer who tried to bribe me to betray a client and Canfield re-fused to bring that lawyer before the ommittee."
Mr. Canfield remarked that that kind of talk was pretty cheap and intimated it was no argument whatsoever and moreover he did not recall the case that Fallon referred to.

Attorney Fallon spoke with much spirit and there is no telling just how the incident would have ended had not Attorney "Al" Merritt, Mr. Fallon's law associate advised his partner to re-frain from personalities. Mr. Fallon did subside but it was evident that he was hot under the collar.

Mr. Fallon was asked after the hearing if he cared to say who the lawyer was that he had in mind that tried to bribe him and he replied that he did not care to discuss the matter in any

Patrick McGrath is a laborer who formerly worked for the city. He was struck by an automobile driven by George P. He said missions, and 23,000 communicants. that Mr. Fallon agreed to take the case on a contingent fee of 25 per cent. of whatever amount he would be able to secure. Some days jater he said he was called into Mr. Fallon's office and told that a settlement had been effected and that he had $66 coming to him. He accepted the check which Mr. Fallon tendered him. Later he said his attention was attracted to his own case by an article he read in certain local newspapers telling of Mr. Fallocal newspapers telling of Mr. Fallon's dealings with other clients. Then he called on Mr. Gabriel and found out that the latter had paid Mr. Fallon $109. He then determined to demand the difference between the amount he received and what would have constituted 75 per cent. of the amount paid to the attorney. He went to Mr. Fallon's office accompanied by his wife where he said Attorney Fallon gave him a check for the difference amounthim a check for the difference amount-His wife receipted for the amount. There were some words be-tween himself and the lawyer he said. This was the substance of McGrath's

George P. Gabriel told the committee about being called to Mr. Fallon's of-fice and settling for $100 and a subse-quent visit to him by McGrath who nquired how much money he had paid to Fallon. McGrath, he said, told him he could not read very well, but he made out the figures on the receipt given Gabriel by the lawyer to be $100 nd appeared to desire no further inand appeared to desire no further information. Subsequently the witness said he talked with Mr. Fallon over the phone about the visit he received from McGrath but the talk was of no particular moment.

Attorney Fallon said he knew McGrath because of the Keegan case, a erably more than a million. The massacres there are said to be worse than those in Adana where 5,000 people have already been slain.

RELIGIOUS ZEAL OF

ORTHODOX MOHAMMEDANS

MAY SAVE THE SULTAN

(Special from United Press.)
Salonica, April 21.—If Sultan Abdul Hammid retains the throne, it will be due to the religious zeal of the Orthodox Mohammedans as much as to any other cause. The abdication of the Sultan is impossible under the Moslem faith. If his retirement becomes necssary it can be done only by his deposition and then under the excuse of mental incompetency. The more radical of the Young Turks see no bar in these provisions and are in favor of deposing Abdul but the Orthodox Mohammedans, who are in the large majority, are now reported to be weaken-Norwalk.

BRIDGEPORT MAY BE HOME OF NEW EPISCOPAL SEE TO BE CALLED "SEE OF BRIDGEPORT"

Bishop Brewster Strongly parties afternoon and night. Favors Plan to Divide Diocese of Connecticut.

Work, But More Thinking" - Emulative Plans Assign the Territory in Somewhat Differing Ways—Estimates of Territory and Expense.

It looks very much as if the plan to divide the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut may finally be adopted. It is possible that the new See may be called after Bridgeport, and that its bishop may make his home in Bridgeport. In the last issue of the Connecticu Churchman, which is the official organ of the Connecticut diocese, Rt. Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, D.D., the bishop, gives his approval to the plan, substantially as it was originally advanced by Rev. Frederick W. Harriman, D.D.

The principal objections to the division are both sentimental and financial. Some favor keeping the "oldest" Diocese intact. The financial objection is met with the claim that the additional expense would not be a bur-den upon any parish. Bishop Brews-ter himself offers to give $1,000 toward the fund for the endowment of the new spiscopate. Bishop Brewster says: "It is now nearly half a century since the division of the diocese was urged by Bish op Williams. Time has served only to confirm and strengthen the position took. My own desire for division, took. My own desire for division, so far as I am personally concerned, is not based upon fear of breaking down. My thought is not that I may do less work but that do less work, but that I may be free to do better work. I should like to be more what a bishop ought to be in his relations to the clergy as pastor pas-torum. I should like to do more as the chief pastor of the people. There are besides things upon which it would be well for me to spend more time and energy than is now found possible. Furthermore, I recall a re-cent public utterance of an English cent public utterance of an English Presbyter, to the effect that bishops ought to talk less and think more. Truly, thinking would seem to have a place in the business of one set to be a leader of the church. It is a function, however, which under present circumstances is neglected more than is most."

The bishop's plan would make the new diocese consist of New Haven, Fairfield and Litchfield counties, less eight towns in Litchfield county, or Waterbury, Plymouth, Thomaston, Harwinton, Torrington, Winsted, Riverton and Pine Meadow. The old dio-cese would contain the five other coun-ties, and the towns named. Under this plan the new diocese cost of conducting its affairs would be $208.282 approximately. The old diocese would contain 63 parishes, 23 missions, 14,930 communi-cants, and its estimated expense would

A plan proposed by Dr. Storrs O. Seymour of Litchfield, has many friends. It makes a division that is more nearly equal. Under this scheme the new diocese would consist of Fairfield and Litchfield counties entire, plus the Navartus well. plus the Naugatuck valley towns plus the Naugatuck vaney towns in New Haven county, Ansonia, Derby, Naugatuck, Seymour, Waterbury, Ox-ford and Southbury. The old diocese would contain the other five counties entire and all of New Haven county except the towns named. Under this division the old diocese would contain 80 parishes, 22 missions and 20,340 communicants. Its estimated expense would be $178,763. The new diocese would contain 73 parishes, 9 missions and 17,653 communicants, and its expense would be $161.086. Dr. Seymour suggests that the new or. Seymour suggests that the heavy see might be called the See of Bridgeport. He also suggests that the Bishop's home would be properly located in Bridgeport, to give him the maximum advantage in visiting the parishes in his diocese.
